Science at New City

Children at New City have been taking part in some fantastic Science. Throughout this year children in Y3 have been having regular virtual meetings with Farmer Charlie. She owns and runs a farm in Norfolk and has shared her farm with Y3 at New City. They have learnt all about life on the farm throughout the year, they have seen what running a farm involves and had opportunities to ask questions. They have really enjoyed their experiences with Farmer Charlie.

Last week our Nursery and Reception children had some very exciting visitors. They had the opportunity to meet and touch small animals from all around the world. They were visited by a skunk, which is only smelly when they are scared, so our children had to be very quiet. They also saw lizards and stroked a snake called Bruce. All children were incredibly brave and sensible, they learnt a lot about animals from our expert visitors.

Y3 Gamelan

This week, Y3 have seen the return of Gamelan. Gamelan is a fully immersive project from Indonesia, where the children make shadow puppets and play Indonesian instruments to tell three different stories. These stories portray traditional Indonesian tales. The children are already so enthusiastic about telling the stories through puppet performances. We will be filming them for you all to see. Which will be on our website at www.newcity.boleyntrust.org

Music at New City

Wow What A Year!

The children have been in full voice this week filming our end of year musical, Wow What A Year. They have worked extremely hard practising their acting and singing in order to bring together a performance detailing what life was like during lockdown. From hectic home schooling to a traumatic trip to Tesco, this show is certain to entertain the whole family! The show is currently in the editing process and will be finalised soon. We look forward to sharing the finished product with you on our website at www.newcity.boleyntrust.org

Ms Fuzzi's Book Review

The Night Bus Hero - Onjali Q. Rauf

Hector is a bully who doesn't really care about anyone and thinks his cringey parents don't care about him. His teachers don't seem to like him (he certainly hates them), he particularly dislikes teacher's pet Mei Lei, and he devotes his time to being mean to other kids and making them give him sweets. He's got so little sympathy for a local homeless man Thomas (who is taking up space in the park, including a bench Hector would like to sit on) that he ends up pushing Thomas's trolley containing his only worldly possessions into the park pond without a single thought of how much hurt that would cause. When a spate of London landmark sculptures are suddenly stolen, including Paddington Bear and the Eros statue in Piccadilly Circus, Hector is convinced the crimes have been carried out by homeless people led by Thomas - but no sooner has he reported Thomas to the police than he realises he's got it horribly wrong. With the help of his enemy Mei Lei, Hector must race against time to make sure justice is done - but that's not the only thing he needs to change...

Library Visits

Over the last few weeks, the children at New City have been visiting Plaistow Library to kick off their Summer Reading Challenge. This year's theme is Wild World Heroes, a nature-themed challenge that will inspire children to engage with environmental issues. Children are challenged to read six different books over the school break to help prevent the summer reading 'dip'. So be sure to visit your local library and remember, you can sign up to the challenge online at https://api.readingagency.org.uk/users/sign_up.
